

Mondays 8a-9a ET

The Most Integrated Hour of the Week

Radio in Black and White is a positive conversation about race, diversity and relationships. Guests and live callers discuss new models emerging in business and community life to develop new language and perspective.

RICK WILSON is an Emmy Award winning writer and producer who has more than twenty years of TV and radio broadcast/production experience. Rick has written and researched extensively on a variety of diversity related issues including African American spiritual history.

SKOT WELCH is a proven communicator with over 16 years of experience in the discipline of diversity management. Skot has a unique ability to encourage and promote multiracial, multiethnic dialogue and has assisted many organizations, including Fortune 500 companies, in implementing sustainable diversity initiatives.

“Radio in Black and White is about faces and places.” Skot Welch said. “We want to give the community a chance to participate in a positive, open, solution-oriented dialogue.”

“We’re on a journey together always riding in the front of the bus.”
